About EIPBN

The EIPBN Conference is dedicated to lithographic patterning science, nanomanufacturing process technology, and the applications these methods enable. For 57 years, and 60 meetings the conference has brought together engineers and scientists from industries and universities from all over the world to report on and discuss recent progress and future trends. The conference typically attracts 400-500 visitors split between industry, academia and national research facilities. Roughly 60% of the attendees are from the United States with a strong international presence.
